Alumni Community

Fordham Law alumni are an extraordinary group of leaders whose accomplishments and dedication continue to propel the Law School forward toward our vision: to provide a complete legal education to talented and deserving students. They are leaders in their professions and in their communities. Their generosity ensures that generations of students have access to a first-rate legal education. Their actions address the vital issues that are relevant to our society. Their time and talents strengthen an extensive alumni network for career support. We look forward to reaching even greater heights in the future with the support of our talented and supportive alumni. They are the heart of the Fordham Law family.
